Students with less professional or paid experience are still able to fill up their CV by treating volunteering as professional experience.

If you have achievements or awards, don't be shy about listing them!

List any computer software and social media platforms by name, especially if they are relevant to your chosen industries.

It is always important for your CV to be targeted to your intended reader, which in this case is a prospective employer and the FIE Internship Team! In order to find you the most suitable placement, make sure to include your personal interests and passions. Corinne includes her enjoyment of travelling, rugby, singing, and more.
